Good Morning Gentlemen,

I respectfully request the General reconsider this order.

It gags me from testifying in my daughter's custody case the night before my case.

It orders me to affirmatively act against her best interests, in a particularly dangerous moment in her life that will change her life forever.

The Judge has already indicated this will likely be the last day of the hearing. I will not have an opportunity to speak the truth in her defense again.

I am confident in the integrity of my command, but I have no confidence in the integrity of whoever is influencing this process to reach a perverse result like this.

If nothing else, I request the order be modified to permit the declassified mission summary enclosure to be submitted to the court. Lily's origin is the entire issue in the case. It is unjust to hide it from the court.

It has previously been considered by a federal court with no concerns raised by DoJ in the subsequent years since that trial, until now.

I am shocked by the injustice of all of this.

My trial starts at 0900.

Semper Fidelis,

Major Mast

1. Pursuant to reference (d), MARSOC rescinded its prior approval (reference (c)) for you to "to utilize official information and relevant unclassified documents" in a Virginia court proceeding. Accordingly, you are not authorized in that proceeding to testify about, proffer evidence on, or elicit testimony about official government information, as defined in SECNAVINST 5820.8A. Additionally, you are directed to take appropriate steps to inform the state court that the U.S. Government has not authorized you to use of any such information that has already submitted as part of the court proceeding. This includes, but is not limited to the following:

- a. Information prepared by the Department of Defense for the International Committee of the Red Cross and Afghan social worker;
- b. Information submitted to the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services by another office in DoD;
- c. Information about what you observed during another agency's questioning of a party to this litigation;
- d. Information within the government regarding an asylum application; and
- e. Information relating to information within a US Government database, specifically including any pleading or exhibit that refers to, incorporates, or cites U.S. Government information.

2. Further, you are directed to withdraw any submission made in the state proceeding that contains official government information, as you do not have authority to use such information, and you shall follow further instructions to properly secure U.S. Government information that has been placed in the court record, including any classified U.S. Government information.

3. Upon the receipt of a request to utilize Department of the Navy information that meets the provisions of SECNAVINST 5820.8A, such request will be acted on promptly. If you intend to utilize information that originated from other DoD components or non-DoD entities, authorization for the use of these above information must be received from the organizations which have cognizance over those subjects.
